The Academy of Medical Educators “Teach 12” Award

This award is for Department of Medicine faculty who best exemplify the Academy’s “TEACH 12” core behaviors that are carried out by our best faculty role models. “TEACH 12” promotes:

- the central roles of humanism, professionalism and caring in patient care
- the primacy of the doctor-patient relationship in clinical teaching
- the importance of teaching at the bedside
- the critical value of bridging the gap between the basic sciences and clinical medicine.

Deadline: Nominations will be accepted through midnight EST May 6, 2015.

Eligibility: All faculty (Instructors, Assistant Professors, Associate Professors and Professors) within the Department of Medicine of Emory University are eligible, except for members of the Academy of Medical Educators.

Nominations: Candidates must be nominated by another faculty member, Division Director, or Service Chief. A concise, one page narrative describing how the nominee personifies the 12 habits as outlined by the Academy of Medical Educator’s “Teach 12” campaign should be included. Although the nominee does not have to necessarily demonstrate all behaviors, he/she should embody the majority of characteristics defined by the Academy. Namely, the nominee should “be caring and compassionate, be curious, be passionate, be prepared, be patient, be exemplary, be a listener, be dedicated, be a communicator, be professional, be thorough, and be there”. Nomination for this award does not preclude nomination for other DOM awards in the same year. Additionally, the candidate must have at least one letter of support from a current or prior learner or trainee who was a recipient of education by the nominee.

Submission must be made electronically by e-mail and include:

- One page nominating letter (5000 character limit) including name and contact information of faculty member being nominated
- One page letter of support by a learner or trainee recipient of education or teaching by the nominee (5000 character limit)
